

LIVINGSTON GEMS FOUND IN A RAID

Heirlooms Stolen by Ghouls from Tomb of Old New York Family Discovered Scattered About Tramps' Quarters.

JEWELRY THROWN IN YARD AND HIDDEN IN AN OVEN.

Rich Collection, Some Bearing Monograms, Recovered, the Leader of the Hoboes Having a Big Share of the Plunder.

ALBANY, May 20.—A large quantity of magnificent jewelry, undoubtedly taken from the coffin of "Lady Mary" Livingston in the recent mysterious raid upon the Livingston family tomb on the Livingston estate below Hudson, and valued at thousands of dollars, has been found by the police in a raid upon a "growl" camp in a low dive in South Lansing street.

Thomas King and others, arrested, refused to give any place of residence, had the jewelry in their pockets, also concealed about the house and thrown around the yard like a lot of junk.

Some of the jewelry is modern, but most of it is very old and marked with the Livingston and De Poyester monogram or actually with the names of women of the Livingston family.

The arrests were made on complaints of neighbors of the Lansing street house, the gang having been noisy and drunken.

Two policemen were sent to bring them in, with no idea that any charge would be made against the men. It was when King was searched that the mine of wealth appeared. The tramp claimed that he found the booty lying beside the railroad track near Reading, Pa.

Having found the stuff on King, the police sent a detail to search the house. An amazing collection of valuables was found, extending even to the back yard. The collection of beautiful and valuable mosaic necklaces, gold cuff buttons bearing the initial "L," gold studs, bits of chain, parts of brooches, empty settings which had contained precious stones and other bits of jewelry.

One of several lockets found here, in addition to the De Poyester monogram, the following inscription: "Helen Livingston, wife of Frederick De Poyester, died on the night of 25th September, 1881, in the 28th year of her age, granddaughter of Robert Gilbert Livingston."

In the oven of a stove, wrapped in a handkerchief, the bulk of the booty was found. It included bracelets, lockets, rings, earrings, brooches, embossed silver toilet articles, hand mirrors, carved coral ornaments, together with a considerable amount of other jewelry, evidently modern, and the fruit of other robberies.

There are two very heavy gold bracelets, with fine camera; several breastpins containing braided hair, one of them surrounded by large and very valuable pearls; a three heavy gold ring mounted with three large black pearls; a pair of gold filigree earrings in the form of large bunches of grapes with leaves, a handsome amber necklace, a pair of large carved tortoise-shell rings (the design being an arrow across a large ring).

A search of pawnshops in the city revealed more of the plunder. An alternative theory, held by the police, to the effect that none of the jewelry came from the Livingston tomb, and was stolen by the gang, is a raid on the Depeyster summer residence at Tarrytown, as well as upon other suburban houses in that vicinity.

WARSHIP TO FORCE BANDIT'S CAPTURE

British Vessel Headed for Tangier While American Minister Works for Rescue of Two Men Being Held for Ransom.

PARIS, May 20.—United States Consul-General Gummer, at Tangier, Morocco, telegraphs confirming the reports that the brigand band which captured Pinkie and Verley, the same that captured Mr. Harris, the London Times correspondent, last year.

Besides capturing the men, members of the band attacked the ladies of the Perdicaris party. The British and American representatives at Tangier are taking energetic measures to obtain the release of the captives, and the Moorish authorities are assisting them.

"EXCUSE ME," SAID THIEF. "I'll Not," Replied Detective McVior, "I'll Pinch You."

A crestfallen young man indeed was Owen McGuire when he was arraigned in Jefferson Market Police Court to-day. It was Owen who tried to steal the watch of Detective McVior, of the Ten-dollar station, in Broadway last night. McGuire felt a tug at his chain, reached down and grabbed the hand of McGuire. "Excuse me," said McGuire, suavely. "I'll Not," replied McVior; "I'll pinch you."

McGuire had nothing to say in court. He was held for trial in the Court of Special Sessions.

YOUTH CAUGHT IN THE ACT OF FISHING FOR COINS.

A youth, who said he was Henry Justen, nineteen years old, of No. 92 Macdonald street, was arrested while trying to rob the poor-box in the Roman Catholic Church, at One Hundred and Nineteenth street and First avenue, to-day.

Justen had a wire on a piece of string and was trying to fish coins out of the box when the sexton, Edward Carr, caught him. He was locked up in the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station-house.

TOOK TWO YEARS TO SERVE PAPERS

Process-Server, Locates Jessie Gleason, and Estate of Late Mayor Patrick Gleason Can Now Be Settled.

FOUND ATTENDING MASS MEMORIAL FOR FATHER.

Estate of Former Boss of Long Island City Greatly Involved, and Many Claims Await Settlement.

After successfully eluding persons anxious to get her into court for two years, Miss Jessie Gleason, daughter of the late Patrick J. Gleason, Mayor of Long Island City, was served to-day with a citation commanding her appearance in the Surrogate's Court of Queens County. She was located while leaving St. Mary's Church, where she had just attended a mass in memory of her father, who died three years ago to-day.

When Gleason died he had just passed through bankruptcy proceedings, and his estate was greatly involved, although it is alleged that he left about $100,000. Dr. Niel O. Fitch applied to the Surrogate's Court for letters of administration, but Miss Gleason disappeared and the matter of settling the estate has remained in abeyance ever since.

She was accompanied to the church to-day by Edward M. Tyrrell and was heavily veiled, probably in the hope of escaping recognition. Edward Fessel, Jr., who had been entrusted with the task of serving the papers upon her, heard that she was in Long Island City, traced her to the church, and performed his duty just as she was entering a coach to be driven to the ferry.

The presence of Miss Gleason in court will put the machinery in motion for the unravelling of the affairs of her father. There are a number of claims against the estate in Long Island City that have been awaiting settlement ever since Mayor Gleason's death because Miss Gleason could not be found. She says she has been living in Cortland, N. Y.

ONLY 210,000 IMMIGRANTS.

Falling Off in Arrivals as Compared with Last Year.

For the first eighteen days of May, ending last Wednesday night, there arrived at Ellis Island 45,824 immigrants, a decrease of 10,771 as compared with the same period last year.

The total arrivals of immigrants from Jan. 1 to May 18, inclusive, this year was 210,248, a falling off of about 35,000 as compared with the same period a year ago.

The arrivals during the early part of this month were light, but increased considerably in the last week.

NEWARK, N. J., May 20.—John R. Hill, forty-six years of age, who lives at No. 104 New York avenue and who is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, while attempting to cross the tracks at the elevation in this city early to-day was struck by a train at the Market street station. He was badly injured and at St. Michael's Hospital, where he was taken, it was said he might not recover.
